FROM OVER THE SEA.

The Duke of Marlborough Dies Suddenly.

Quarantine in the East—Henry Irving Coming to America—A Balloon Crosses the Channel at Last, Etc.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, July 5.—The farewell banquet to Henry Irving last night was a grand affair. There were present over five hundred gentlemen, and four hundred ladies listened to the toasts. Lord Chief Justice Coleridge presided over the distinguished assemblage, in which were many well-known Americans. The day, and the character of the guests, with the prospective visits of Lord Coleridge and Mr. Irving to America, made the event one of international interest. Hon. James Russell Lowell, the American Minister at St. James, replied to the toast to the President. The entrance of Miss Ellen Terry was loudly applauded. She was dressed all in white and was very charming. The toast to the guests was replied to by Professor Tyndall, whose presence was very pleasing to the American guests, many of whom he was personally intimate with, and to whom he alluded in a kindly fashion.

Mr. Irving was cheered heartily, the ladies clapping their hands as he arose to make his farewell speech, which practically closed the evening's entertainment. He was going to the United States he said, in a very hopeful mood, and confident of generous treatment even if not of success.

"Of one thing I feel sure," he said, "in going to America I am going among friends; (Cheers repeated); they will exercise their critical judgment for praise or blame, but always justly. (Cheers.) I will not discount success or suggest failure; I go with a certainty of meeting friends, kind treatment and just criticism. I know this from the friends who have been before me." (Cheers.)

LONDON, July 5.—A balloon crossed the channel yesterday by accident after all the failures of professional attempts to make the journey. It was an exhibition ascension balloon from a town in Belgium, and was driven out over the sea by an unexpected gale, the aeronaut coming down on the first land he saw.

Sir Auckland Calvin has been appointed to succeed Major Baring as Indian Finance Minister and member of the Indian Council. The company of Henry Irving will leave for New York on the steamer City of Rome October 10, accompanied by Mr. Irving and a party of his American friends.

LONDON, July 5.—The Government is showing much anxiety on the subject of cholera in Egypt, and has announced in answer to requests for information, that should the epidemic spread, all troops now on duty in the Nile districts will be removed to the Mediterranean stations, where they could have excellent treatment and an unpolluted air.

LONDON, July 5.—It is announced that the English Local Government Board has prepared and will issue at once stringent quarantine regulations, intended to prevent the introduction of cholera at English ports.

LONDON, July 5.—The Duke of Marlborough died of cardiac syncope to-day. He was sixty-three years old. His death was very sudden. He was slightly indisposed yesterday, but dined with his family at the usual hours and retired apparently well. He was found dead on the floor in his room this morning.

J. W. Spencer-Churchill, K. G., Duke of Marlborough, was born in 1822, and succeeded to the dukedom in 1857. He was married. His successor is the Marquis of Blandford, born in 1844.

LONDON, July 5.—During the twenty-four hours ending at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning there were 122 deaths at Daietta, thirty-two at Mansurah, four at Samoud, four at Shibirin, and three at Fort Said.

The sanitary cordon around Daietta stretches in a circle of fifteen miles circumference. Two recent cases at Alexandria reported as cholera were really gastric fever.

Denmark has imposed quarantine upon vessels arriving at Danish points from Egypt.

LONDON, July 5.—Sir William Gull, M. D., in a communication to Earl Granville, the British Foreign Secretary, states that in his opinion the cholera in Egypt will subside without spreading to Europe.

LONDON, July 5.—It is now estimated that 150 persons were drowned by the sinking of the Daphne. The diver reports that the bodies in the hold are so closely packed that he was unable to move them. Preparations are being made to raise the vessel. Fifty-two bodies have been recovered.

LONDON, July 5.—A Shanghai dispatch says the Chinese commander has definitely rejected the French proposals, and referred the French ambassador to the foreign board at Peking.

SUNDERLAND, July 5.—At the inquest into disaster by which 182 children lost their lives several children testified that they saw a man bolt the door as they descended the stairs, but they varied in the description of the man.

SAXONY.

DRESDEN, July 5.—The King of Saxony had a narrow escape from death yesterday, while visiting the Georgi's factories in the little town of Milan, in the Voightland district, through which he was making a summer tour for pleasure.

The machinery of the elevator broke and killed the Governor of the district, mangle his body. The manager of the factory was badly and probably fatally hurt. The King, who was accompanied by them, escaped with but a few slight bruises.

FRANCE.

PARIS, July 5.—The Papae Nuncio at Madrid has ordered that all bishops, priests and members of every grade of clergy, shall refrain from any interference in Spanish politics, on account of Carlist opinions, which it is desired to prevent.

GERMANY.

BERLIN, July 5.—Prince Bismarck, ill as he is, was yesterday removed to Friedrichsruhe, where he hopes to further improve. Politically this is regarded as one step on his way to the meeting of the emperors.

AN INDOMITABLE WOMAN.

A Lifetime Spent in Fighting the City of New Orleans—A Verdict of $2,000,000 at Least.

NEW ORLEANS, July 5.—Myra Clark Gaines received last week another decision from the United States Supreme Court compelling New Orleans to levy a tax of $2,000,000 to satisfy her last judgment, and the City Council say they will go to jail before they will obey it. For the last fifty-eight years this lady has fought for her rights in the courts of the United States. Her case is one of the most remarkable on record. It involves the title to millions of dollars of property in New Orleans, and it will probably not be finally settled as long as the city can legally fight against it. It is now eighty-two years since Daniel Clark, a handsome young man who had been for some years leading the life of an Indian trader in Mississippi, came to Philadelphia to spend the winter. Clark was a gay fellow and took in all the pleasures of the then metropolis of America. In his rounds he met a French beauty, and fell in love with her. This woman's name was Zulime Carrier, and at the time she was living with a Frenchman named La Grange, Clark met her. Whether she was married to La Grange or not is one of the points in question. The defendants claim she was his legal wife. At any rate when Clark met her in 1805 she left La Grange and went to live with Clark. The Supreme Court of the United States has declared that she was privately married to Clark, and that she was merely La Grange's mistress.

In 1806, seventy-seven years ago, Myra Clark was born. She was the only child Zulime Carrier had by Daniel Clark.

At this time Clark sent Zulime to New Orleans and acted as a bachelor. He engaged himself in marriage, and formed other connections producing other offspring. He denied the fact that he had married Zulime, and when she came back and pushed the case in the Philadelphia Court, she was unable to succeed. She finally took up with a Dr. Gardette and lived with him until he died.

But while Clark would have nothing to do with the mother, he took good care of the child. Myra Clark was well educated by him, and was treated by him as a daughter. He went again into Indian trading at New Orleans and amassed an immense fortune. In 1813, just seventy years ago, he died, and a will was produced showing that all of his property was left to his mother and the city of New Orleans. Myra Clark, then only seven years old, was apparently penniless, and the executors took charge of the estate.

When Myra grew to the age of twenty she married a Mr. Whitney, and then she began to contest the will. She claimed she was the only legitimate daughter of Daniel Clark, and that his property was hers. The claim was at once hotly contested, and Mr. Whitney died before it was tried.

The widow continued to prosecute the suit. Shortly afterward she married General Gaines, and he entered into the case as warmly as herself. The case was tried at New Orleans. It was lost. It was carried to the Supreme Court at Washington. It was again lost. In 1852 it seemed a hopeless fight, and at this time General Gaines died.

But Myra Clark Gaines was not discouraged, and shortly after this time she discovered a will executed by her father, certifying that Myra was his only child, and creating her his sole heir. Upon this will she again went before the courts in New Orleans. She again lost. She again appealed to the Supreme Court at Washington, and here, in 1861, she obtained a judgment confirming this will, and giving her the whole property left her by her father and the rents thereof for the past thirty years. Then the war broke out, and justice was again delayed. Since then she has, I think, received something from the city, but nothing in comparison with her rights. She is now seventy-seven years of age, and will be perhaps the richest woman in the United States if she ever comes into the property for which she has so pluckily fought for a lifetime.

HOBRID HERBING.

A Father Who Made His Daughter Have Her Beautiful Teeth Pulled.

PHILADELPHIA, July 5.—Dr. Cornog, a dentist of Atlantic City, was called upon by Miss Bella Herring, a handsome girl, who asked him to pull some of her teeth, which were perfectly sound. The dentist demanded the reason for her conduct, when she told him that her father had ordered her punishment for receiving the visits of a young man distasteful to him, to either go to a convent or have her teeth extracted. Dr. Cornog found that 11 had already been pulled, and declined to do any such work. He told a reporter about it, and the publication of the facts has caused great indignation against old Herring.

At El Paso, Tex., Jos. Brewster, a Canadian Frenchman, who committed an outrage on Miss Davis at Ft. Davis, about a year ago, while a United States soldier, was hanged at Yaleta, the county seat of El Paso county. Application was made to the Governor to interfere in his favor, but he refused to comply. The execution was private, only officers and members of the press being admitted. Brewster was so affected when he was sentenced that he could scarcely walk.

WHO WILL BE KING?

Paris Excited Over the Impending Death of Count de Chambord.

Will Count de Paris Accept the Bourbon Pretensions and Declare Himself King?

PARIS, July 5.—News was received here at midnight that the physicians attending the Count de Chambord, at a consultation last night, decided that his case was hopeless.

At the theaters, cafes, clubs—everywhere—the sole topic of conversation is the Count de Chambord. At the opera all the boxes of monarchists of every shade of opinion are empty, even those of the Bonapartists who recall to mind the fact that the royalists acted similarly at the time of the tragic end of the Prince Imperial. In the Chamber of Deputies no thought is given to the return of M. Challemeil-Lacour, or the interpellation on the Tonquin matter. Chambord is on everybody's lips. The royalists are prostrated with grief; the Bonapartists grieve, collected and expectant, and the Republicans affect not to be disturbed by what they call a mere historical accident.

The Voltaire publishes the following: "No more days of repose for the Count de Paris. Mort, le Comte de Chambord decouvre son cousin que vivait il courrait. From every hamlet in France, from every member of the two Chambers, from every monarchist and every republican—in short, from every Frenchman—the inevitable question is addressed to the Count de Paris, 'Are you the King or are you not?' This question is for him unanswerable. Fate has made him heir of Chambord and of the Kings of France at a moment when he can neither accept the heritage nor repudiate it.

"If he accepts it he at once plunges France into civil war between the constituted authority of the Republic and the House of Orleans. If he repudiates—and silence is all repudiation—we ask what more striking and conclusive proof can there be of the utter annihilation of the monarchy and of the chimerical character of its hopes? Nevertheless, that which now expires at Frobergart is a grande chose, the French monarchy, which now carries with it, and this time forever, the drapeau de la vieille France."

PARIS, July 5.—The New York Herald's Paris correspondent has an interview with Dr. Heilroth at Vienna. He says:

"I was summoned on Sunday to Frobergart solely for the purpose of examining the Prince's leg and deciding whether there would be any danger in his going partridge shooting. I found the Count of Chambord not in bed but reclining in an arm-chair. He absolutely refuses to take to his bed. He says 'I abhor it.'"

The exhaustion arising from not eating is very great. M. Heilroth has lost forty pounds weight already.

The correspondent says that on the road from Neustadt to Frobergart the peasants manifested much grief, saying: "Ach mein Herr! This is a great piece of ill-luck for all of us. We are about to lose a king and a father."

A MOTHER'S STRUGGLE.

To Save a Maniac Daughter Swinging From the Eaves Six Stories Above the Pavement.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Mrs. Staver and her two daughters, both grown and one an invalid, occupy an upper suit of apartments in the six-story flat house No. 121 West Eleventh street. Early in the morning the mother and daughters were in their rooms awaiting the arrival of some friends who were to take the invalid girl to a hospital for treatment. Suddenly the girl got up from her chair, and, saying, "Mamma, dear, I cannot stay in this room; it is so close—let me go for a little air," ran lightly up the stairs and disappeared through the attic door. The younger sister followed some time after apparently not fearing any danger. As she reached the roof she was horrified to see the girl sitting on the coping. She called her mother, and as the latter reached the roof, the girl, bending down and catching hold of the cornice with her two hands, swung herself over. The paved yard was six stories below. The mother, with a shriek, rushed forward and caught the girl by the arm just as she was relaxing her grasp on the cornice.

The daughter struggled violently. "Let me go!" she cried again and again. "I want to die! I want to die!"

The mother with a strength that seemed super-natural, still held the girl, although her whole weight now depended upon the mother's grasp. But the sister came to her assistance and both called hysterically for aid. Their cries—"Save her! Help! Help!" rang through all the neighborhood. Some children in the yard below shrieked. Men came to the windows, and, after a brief look, rushed from the street and to the stairs. Everybody shouted for help.

A lady in the apartment below, with a gentleman beside her, leaned far out from a window directly under the struggling girl. But she could barely reach her. She could secure a slight hold upon one of Miss Staver's ankles, and this hold she kept at great personal danger, somewhat checking the hapless girl's efforts to get free from her mother's frantic grasp. It was evident to the shuddering spectators that in a moment more the strength of the woman above must give out and that the crazed girl must plunge down to death, carrying with her, by her weight, the brave lady below her, and perhaps the mother and sister. In this supreme moment of suspense, above the cries of mother and daughter and onlookers, the girl shrieked loudly, "Let me drop! It will be better for me! I want to go!" Then a young girl rushed on the roof and gave her feeble aid to the two ladies, and then a head and shoulders appeared through the trap door and the first of the rescuers swung himself on to the roof. There was a glad shout and then profound silence, except for the cries of the maniac. In an instant he was at the edge of the roof, and, leaning far over, had his arms about the girl's shoulders. A second stalwart man came to his assistance. The mother and sister fell back fainting. The two men slowly drew the still struggling girl over the parapet and to safety.

A NEW CABLE.

No Combination an Cheap Rates Are Promised.

NEW YORK, July 5.—There is to be another wire under the sea. The new enterprise differs from its predecessors in including virtually the whole world in its scope. Most of the companies are formed for the philanthropic purpose of relieving the people on the two sides of the Atlantic from the exorbitant charges of the monopolists who control the business through combination, and then, when their cables are laid, enter into the combination themselves. This company is chartered, however, by the British Parliament to "establish communication between Sable Island and Belle Isle and any other points as may be selected on the shores of the Dominion of Canada, and such points as may be chosen on the shores of Great Britain and the European continent, or elsewhere, and also between any points on the Pacific coast of the Dominion of Canada and Japan, China, Australia and India."

This is tolerably comprehensive, but a simple cable under the Atlantic is all that is immediately contemplated with London and New York as the two chief terminal points. The peculiar advantage possessed by this new company over all its predecessors is the possession of certain patents which enable it to lay down a cable for $3,250,000, whereas other companies can not do the same for less than $5,000,000. It can be seen at once that this company can do work at rates which will defy competition on the part of the old ones.

The capital has all been subscribed, and landing rights have been secured in the United States, France, Belgium and Holland. The cable is in process of construction. The corporation rejoices in the name of the American, Bristol and Continental Cable Company, and has at its head a live London Alderman. Articles of agreement have been drawn upon between it and the American Telegraph Company, with which a connection is established, stipulating that no poolings of earnings or combinations with other cable companies shall take place. Independent of this, the new A. B. C. Cable Company promises to furnish the public and the commercial world with facilities for rapid communication such as are now afforded by no other company, including, of course, cheaper rates.

PURGATORY ARRAIGNED.

A New York Judge Decides That Requests for Masses are Void—Great Excitement Among Catholics.

NEW YORK, July 5.—Much commotion has been created among Catholics by Judge Freeman's decision in the Supreme Court, that a trust to pay money for masses to be said for the repose of the soul is void, for their is no more common practice among Catholics than to have masses said for "the souls of the faithful departed." The decision was, so far as could be ascertained universally condemned by Catholics.

Father Farley, the Cardinal's secretary, was especially emphatic in his condemnation of the application of the law.

"It is a violation of the rights of conscience," said Father Farley, "and in its essence a violation of all law, human and divine. They may put it as they please and wrap it up in whatever words they please, but it is really the outcome of the penal and persecuting laws enacted under Henry VIII, Elizabeth, Edward VI, and all along. Those laws were invented to persecute the Catholics. But they were not simply anti-Catholic, they were anti-Christian. Why, Henry VIII, himself, on whose statute this decision is partially based, left directions in his last will for masses to be said for his soul in perpetuity. I am not sure but that Queen Elizabeth made a similar provision. Judge Freeman says truly that the English Protestant doctrine of 'superstitious uses,' under which the English courts condemned all masses both for the living and the dead, is 'against the spirit of our institutions and should not be adopted by our courts.' The priesthood generally is outspoken in denunciation of the decision.

GENERAL GEORGE CROOK.

On His Way to Washington—His Opinion on Indian Affairs.

OMAHA, NEB., July 5.—General George Crook, reached Omaha last night from Arizona on his way to Washington, and was on arrival given a banquet by prominent citizens and military officers. It is the opinion of General Crook that the Indian troubles in Arizona are settled; at least it looks that way to him. He said he did not know what was wanted of him at Washington; he had been simply ordered there without explanation. The supposition is that he is wanted for consultation as to the disposal of the captives and the policy to be pursued regarding the Arizona Indians. It is fair to presume that he will recommend that they be given an opportunity to procure farms and become self-supporting.

At the banquet there was a unanimous sentiment that the Government should adopt General Crook's peace policy of dealing with the Indians as the only one, and that the management of the Indians and Indian affairs should be turned over to the army.

OUR STEEL CRUISERS.

John Roach, of Chester, Underbids All Competitors For Their Construction.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—Secretary Chandler has $320,000 in certified checks and sixteen bids for the construction of the new steel cruisers in his strong-box. At 12 o'clock Monday the long, handsome room in the new Navy Department where Secretary Chandler transacts his official business was half-filled with gentlemen interested in the new steel cruisers. The Naval Advisory Board were there, and representatives from all the great ship-building firms, except the company over which ex-Commander Goring presides, and Pusey and Jones, of Wilmington, who had announced their intention not to bid.

Presently Senator Jonas, of Louisiana, and Representative Blackburn happened in. They became interested, and waited and listened.

Promptly at noon Secretary Chandler made a little speech to the bidders, rehearsing the familiar history of the present attempt to get a few good ships for the navy, and recalling the terms of the oft published advertisement. He had the ears of his little audience, but their eyes were fixed on the enveloped bids lying on the Secretary's desk.

They did not have to wait long. As soon as the Secretary finished a member of the Advisory Board began to break the seals and read the bids.

For the 4,500-ton steel cruiser C. H. Delameter & Co., New York, bid $1,163,000; the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, Wilmington, $1,120,000; Cramp & Son, Philadelphia, $1,080,000; John Roach, Chester, $889,000.

Each bidder sent in a $30,000 check with his bid.

For the 3,000-ton steel cruiser the following bids were made: The Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, $777,000; Harris, Loring & Co., Boston, $748,000; Cramp & Son, $650,000; John Roach & Son, $619,000.

Each bidder sent in a $20,000 check.

For the 3,000-ton cruiser the following bids were made: Harlan & Hollingsworth Company, $775,000; Quintard Iron Company, New York, $763,000; Cramp & Sons, $650,000; John Roach, $617,000.

Each bidder sent in a $20,000 check.

For the despatch boat bids were made: H. A. Ramsey & Co., Baltimore, $420,000; Allen & Blaisdale, St. Louis, $380,000; Cramp & Son, $375,000; John Roach, $315,000.

Each bidder sent in a $10,000 check.

LOTTA MARRIED.

The Little Footlight Favourite Becomes Mrs. O. Edwin Huss.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The Rev. F. D. Power, Garfield's old pastor, married Miss Charlotte Crabtree and Mr. O. Edwin Huss Tuesday evening at the residence of a friend. A prominent Southern Democratic Congressman who knows them both says that Miss Crabtree was none other than "Lotta," and that Mr. Huss is a good fellow who will make her a good husband.

At the house where the wedding was said to have taken place the lady who opened the door admitted that a wedding between the parties named had occurred, but when asked whether the bride's name was "Lotta," said she had nothing more to say. Inquiry at the Arlington, where the bride and groom were said to have spent the night preparatory to leaving for Europe, revealed the fact that a lady and gentleman—the lady resembling Lotta—arrived there Tuesday night, and registered as Mr. and Mrs. Steinmetz, of New Mexico. They left Wednesday.

The doubt entertained about the story of the wedding grows out of the belief that Lotta is in Europe, where she sailed recently. Still, she is said to have returned at once.

Huss is a handsome, fair-headed Englishman who recently inherited $150,000. He is a graduate of the Annapolis Naval Academy. He has been a theatrical manager in a small way. He saved Lotta's life on Lake George some time since. She gave him a medal for it and fell in love with him. He was then in love with a Washington girl who will marry a Connecticut man. He afterwards turned to Lotta—so goes the story.

Two Balloon Fatalities.

Huston H. Ludlum and Prof. Owings Fall From Their Balloons.

CINCINNATI, July 5.—A special dispatch to-day states that Professor Huston H. Ludlum, a Cincinnati aeronaut, well and favorably known in athletic circles as one of the most daring aerial gymnasts in the country, fell from a balloon at Montrose, Pa., yesterday afternoon. His head struck a rock, fracturing his skull and inflicting fatal injuries.

For a long time he has been manager of the Cincinnati Chimney Cleaning Company, but becoming dissatisfied he entered the more exciting and dangerous occupation of a balloonist, which he has followed successfully for the past three years. He has a wife and four small children residing on Southgate street, Newport, where the sad news was communicated to them this morning.

To the friends who accompanied him to the depot on Tuesday he said: "I feel that something is about to happen; something tells me not to go, but I've signed the contract, and go I must. Good by."

KEOKUK, IA., July 5.—It is the general impression here that Professor Owings, who made a balloon ascension Wednesday afternoon, met with an accident. Thirty minutes after the start the balloon descended below the horizon and quickly reappeared, going above the clouds. The basket and Professor could not be seen. He was pretty drunk when the start was made. A telegram to the Gate City from Burnside, Ill., says that a farmer captured the balloon one and a half miles from Burnside by using a shotgun, and that Owings is probably killed.

The wound of Elam, the Virginia duelist, it is reported, has placed him in a very dangerous condition.

Collectors Finnell, Swope and Crumbaugh, of Kentucky, are booked for investigations upon charges made against them.

It will not be necessary to place revenue stamps on bank checks hereafter. The law abolishing the stamps went into effect on the first of the month.

The window glass and flint glass factories in the Pittsburgh, Steubenville, Wheeling and other districts have closed for the usual summer period of six weeks to two months.

Judge Amen has discharged the entire jury in the case of ex-Treasurer Polk, at Nashville. He believed the jury had been tampered with and would not render a verdict according to law.

General John W. Finnell's friends at Washington are very confident there is no foundation for the charges which have been preferred against him by McClure, of Newport, and the general impression is that the investigation will amount to nothing.

It is believed that if the condition of the Treasury will permit, a call of bonds will be made during the present month. It will depend, however, on the demand made by pension agents and other disbursing officers, and the effect produced upon the revenue by the operation of the new tariff act.

DECREASE of the public debt during June, $1,809,032; cash in the Treasury, $345,389,902; gold certificates, $82,378,640; silver certificates, $88,616,851; certificates of deposit, $11,375,000; refunding certificates, $355,900; legal tenders, $346,861,016; fractional currency, $7,000,690. Decrease for the year, $137,823,253. The valuable coinage at the various mints during June $4,444,432, of which $2,350,200 was standard dollars. The issue of standard dollars the past week was $163,985, against $167,000 the same time last year.

A WASHINGTON dispatch says: Mr. Preston, the acting director of the mint, says that under the act which authorized the coinage of trade dollars these pieces were coined for depositors of silver bullion of the mints, and the charge imposed for coinage was at a rate not to exceed the actual cost to the Government of manufacture. By this act any owner of silver bullion could have the same coined into trade dollars. They, therefore, were not issued or paid out by the Government in payment of the obligations or exchanged for other money. The Government has endeavored to keep the trade dollar in its lawful and proper channel, and from ignorance of the law relative to this coin parties have taken them in ordinary business transactions, when they could have been lawfully refused. Mr. Preston says there is no remedy, unless Congress legislates upon the matter. His idea would be to call all the trade dollars in, and redeem them, Congress fixing the rate at which they should be redeemed.

Tutti Frutti.

One quart of rich cream, one and one-half ounces of sweet almonds, chopped fine; one-half pound of sugar; freeze, and, when sufficiently congealed, add one-half pound of preserved fruits, with a few raisins chopped, and finely-sliced citron. Cut the fruit small, and mix well with the cream. Freeze like ice cream; keep on ice until required.

Starting the Tobacco Crop in the Field.

Western Tobacco Journal.

The following advice regarding setting out and caring for growing plants is timely, and will prove valuable to growers if heeded:

The effort is to keep the ground loose and mellow for the tender roots to readily take nourishment at first setting, that the soil may be in the best condition to encourage the roots to spread, giving favorable start to the plant. The grower is to be ready to take advantage of the first favorable weather. If the ground is too dry, the plants are to be watered as they are set out. Haul the water to the field in barrels and pour a cupful in each hole; this make moist earth for packing loosely around the roots. The plant may need watering for a day or two, or at least until thoroughly revived.

The poorer the land the closer should the plants be set, to protect the ground and plant from the hot scorching sun. In rich ground, set in rows three and a half feet apart, and plant from twelve to twenty-four inches apart, but if the land is poor, the rows should be three feet apart. All conditions being favorable, then, and the plants showing leaves as large or larger than silver dollars, select plants of even size, low bunchy tops, if possible, as they are sure to be strongly rooted, and draw from the bed one at a time. As care must be taken not to injure the roots or leaves, the seed bed should be moist enough to let the plants be pulled easily. Slender, spindling plants are not desirable, nor should small ones be set out except to complete a planting. Have a care in pulling the young plants from the beds, not to tear or bruise roots or stock, nor keep them out of the ground too long. In setting give the roots their natural position, so as not to cramp them. Draw the dirt nicely around, so that they may take food and moisture at once. Such attention will pay well, and will not delay the work.

If the ground is wet, or it should rain after planting, they will soon take root; and although they wilt during the day, will recover at night.

The cut worm is the first enemy to be conquered in the field, and he is liable to open the attack at once when the plants are set, and to keep it up until the leaves are five or six inches long; therefore, go over the field day after day until the stalks are hard enough to resist the worm. He is readily found. A leaf will be eaten off, or the entire stalk, and you will see it wilted and partly drawn into his hole. There may be one or more. Early morning is the best time to hunt him, as he is then nearer to the surface; later in the day the sun drives him deeper in the soil. From these pests much replanting will be necessary. Close watch will cause them to disappear as plants grow stronger. If plants are not set out until they are strong enough to resist the shock of transplanting, the probabilities of a good stand are increased. A good plan is to divide the field into three parts. The first portion is devoted to the most forward plants in the plant bed. Then so soon as a propitious time occurs the second portion is set, and finally the third and remaining part of the field. This arrangement provides against any of the plants being harvested either too early or too late.

In an ordinary season the planter can tell within a day or two what hills will need replanting, and to supply such he should have in reserve a quantity of thrifty plants. All plants that do not revive promptly, or are weak or injured in setting, should be replaced with the best that are in the bed, to preserve an even stand in the field, and to have the use of the land, for the missing plants would have been all profit to the farmer. The number of the vacant hills depend upon neglect or carelessness at the first planting.

CONDENSED NEWS.

At Chicago a two days' bicycle race between Miss Maggie Wallace, of New York City, and Louise Armande has begun.

At Chicago, Peter L. Grant, proprietor of an extensive iron foundry, blew out his brains on account of his inability to obtain boat to go pleasureing on the lake on the 4th.

A YEAR-OLD child of John Darby was strangled by the cars at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., yesterday. The mother saw fifty cars pass over the infant's body and she carried away the head in one hand and the body in another to her house.

At Salt Lake City, Utah, ten suits were instituted by Mormons in the United States District Court against the Commissioners appointed by the President to carry out the provisions of the Edmunds bill. This is believed to be a deliberate attempt to break down the Commissioners and defeat the onerous law.

At Guaymas, Mexico, Cajame, Chief of the Yagui Nation, was killed during the fight at Yaqui river, when returning from mass. He was shot by an unseen person. It is claimed that there is no one capable of filling the place of this great chief. The rich country of the mines and agricultural and will now more easily fall into the hands of the Mexicans.

NEAR Jefferson, Tex., Judge Haughn was assassinated on the road home from where he had been attending a night session of the court. One ball passed through his right breast and another penetrated his heart. His horse's head and his own clothing were perforated with buckshot. The firing was heard by the neighbors, but the report of firearms is such a common occurrence that it attracted no attention. It is not known who did the shooting.

FATHER TOM BURKE—poet, priest, orator—known and beloved by the Old World and the New, died yesterday at the House of Studies which he founded for his order (Dominican), at Tallacht, near Dublin, at the early age of fifty-three. Seven years ago he was so seriously ill that a report of his death was circulated—a report that he himself contradicted in his own inimitable way. He will be remembered in this country for many years to come for the lectures in which he followed and flayed Mr. Froude for his misrepresentations of Ireland and the Irish. His intense patriotism and wonderful humor, combined with his marvellous oratorical powers, made him an antagonist which the English historian could not meet and from whom he was finally forced to retire.

AN ESTIMABLE LADY KILLED BY AN UNKNOWN ASSASSIN.

MASSILLON, O., July 5.—A ball from a pistol in the hands of a person yet unknown, at an early hour Tuesday morning, ushered into eternity Mrs. David E. Kirkland, a most estimable lady, the wife of one of the most highly-respected residents of this city.

Near the hour of two o'clock Mrs. Kirkland was awakened by a noise outside her window. She arose from her bed and went in the direction of the sounds to ascertain their cause, and when directly in front of the window, the lower sash of which was hoisted for ventilation, she was shot by some one standing on the roof of the porch outside. The members of the household were startled by the report of the weapon, and hastily gathered around the prostrate form of the stricken woman. She gasped with great effort that a man had shot her, and died in less than five minutes after the leaden missile struck her.

SCROFULA

and all scrofulous diseases, Sores, Erysipelas, Eczema, Blotches, Ringworm, Tumors, Carbuncles, Boils, and Eruptions of the Skin, are the direct result of an impure state of the blood.

To cure these diseases the blood must be purified, and restored to a healthy and natural condition. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA has for over forty years been recognized by eminent medical authorities as the most powerful blood purifier in existence. It frees the system from all foul humors, enriches and strengthens the blood, removes all traces of mercurial treatment, and proves itself a complete master of all scrofulous diseases.

A Recent Cure of Scrofulous Sores.
"Some months ago I was troubled with scrofulous sores (ulcers) on my legs. The limbs were badly swollen and inflamed, and the sores discharged large quantities of offensive matter. Every remedy I tried failed, until I used AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, of which I have now taken three bottles, with the result that the sores are healed, and my general health greatly improved. I feel very grateful for the good your medicine has done me. Yours respectfully, Mrs. ANN O'BRIAN," 148 Sullivan St., New York, June 24, 1882.

All persons interested are invited to call on Mrs. O'Brian; also upon the Rev. Z. P. Woods of 78 East 54th Street, New York City, who will take pleasure in testifying to the wonderful efficacy of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, not only in the cure of this lady, but in his own case and many others within his knowledge.

The well-known writer on the Boston Herald, B. W. BALL, of Rochester, N.H., writes, June 7, 1882: "Having suffered severely for some years with Eczema, and having failed to find relief from other remedies, I have made use, during the past three months, of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, which has effected a complete cure. I consider it a magnificent remedy for all blood diseases."

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

stimulates and regulates the action of the digestive and assimilative organs, renews and strengthens the vital forces, and speedily cures Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Rheumatic Gout, Catarrh, General Debility, and all diseases arising from an impoverished or corrupted condition of the blood, and a weakened vitality. It is incomparably the cheapest blood medicine, on account of its concentrated strength, and great power over disease.
